- Plans show good opportunities for a variety of independent and collaborative work.
- There is some evidence of differentiated tasks so that the work consolidates, builds knowledge and understanding. Differentiation should continue to further challenge more able pupils.
- In the Foundation Stage, themes are reinforced through appropriate and well planned continuous provision.
- Good quality resources are used within lessons and teachers use Information Communication Technology to maximise learning, particularly through the use of interactive whiteboards.
- Teaching Assistants provide excellent care and support to pupils. They are deployed effectively and show sensitivity to pupils needs. They ensure all pupils in their care reach their full potential.
- Pupils are given opportunities to discuss their work and assessment for learning was used in some lessons observed. This good practice should be shared across the school.
- Pupils are informed of their progress and how to improve both orally and at times through marking. Marking shows positive and encouraging comments and should continue to improve by using the driver words to challenge pupils in their next steps.
- By developing and sharing good practice of assessment for learning in lessons and through marking, teachers will enable pupils to consistently evaluate their own work.
- The school assesses pupils' achievements well and expectations for able learners will continue to be raised as the new Religious Education Programme, 'Come and See' is embedded.
- The school tracks the achievement of all the pupils. Teachers are able to identify how well pupils are working.
- The school has good assessment strategies which provide detailed information on the achievement of all the pupils.
- Effort and achievement at all stages of learning is celebrated.

The extent to which the Religious Education Curriculum promotes pupils' learning

- The curriculum is good in meeting pupils' needs and the school has successfully implemented the new Religious Education Programme, Come and See.
- The school, using the Come and See programme recommended by the Archdiocese, meets the requirements of the Curriculum Directory for Religious Education. Appropriate levels of the programme are being followed in different classes. This ensures complete Religious Education entitlement for each child and meets National and Archdiocesan requirements.
- Of the total curriculum time 10% is allocated to Religious Education. This fulfils the requirements of the Bishops of England and Wales.
- Planning ensures full coverage of the Religious Education programme. Imaginative and well planned strategies are deployed to enrich pupils learning.
- The school implements new curriculum developments as appropriate.
- Enrichment activities such as residential and a variety of out of school clubs including, sporting activities, drama and choir have a positive impact on the curriculum.
- The Religious Education curriculum provides good opportunities for pupils' spiritual, moral development and vocation such as retreat days for older pupils.
- Children have explored the beliefs and values of other faiths and religions. This helps to promote tolerance and respect for those who think differently.
- Judaism is taught each year and other religions are taught on a timetabled programme. Visitors share their experiences of other religions with pupils.

- Governors are enthusiastic and knowledgeable of their responsibilities and actively support to shape the direction of the school. They receive regular updates regarding the Catholic life of the school. They are keen to involve themselves in Archdiocesan Governor training.
- Governors attend a variety of liturgical and seasonal celebrations. They have good links with the local parish that provides valuable connections between home and school. The Chair of Governors is very active within the daily life of the school.
- There is a new Parish Priest who is actively building relationships and becoming a familiar face within the school community. He has a good relationship with the Religious Education coordinator and is proactive in making links between home, school and parish, in particular through the With You Always Sacramental Programme.
- The Senior Leadership Team play active roles in the church community.
- The Parish Priest has held and been a part of liturgical celebrations and has plans to build more parental involvement and has plans for pupil retreats.
- Leadership at all levels respects difference, values diversity and ensures equal opportunities for all.
- The school provides induction and in-service training to enable staff to further understand the Church’s Mission in Education and play their unique part in it.
- Some staff hold a suitable Religious Education qualification. The school should continue to encourage those teachers teaching Religious Education to complete the Catholic Certificate in Religious Studies to further their understanding of the Church’s Mission in Education.
- There is good Spiritual and Moral, policies in place that is reflective of the positive relationships within the whole school community.

- The quality of Collective Worship is a priority for the school and more detailed monitoring would support leaders, governors and managers in its evaluation.
- Parents are consulted regularly and involved in a variety of ways in the life of the school e.g. the school website has good information for parents and are invited to a variety of liturgical celebrations and charity events.

How well leaders, governors and managers promote, monitor and evaluate the provision for the Religious Education of the school and plan and implement improvement to outcomes for pupils.

- Leaders, governors and managers are good in promoting, monitoring and evaluating the provision for the Religious Education of the school.
- The Religious Education coordinator is excellent in leading Religious Education, showing good knowledge and understanding of her key role. She attends regular training and updates provided by the Archdiocese.
- In her role she shows dedication and commitment in driving forward new initiatives and to ensure that Religious Education is the core subject in school. She communicates with the headteacher, staff, parents and governors effectively
- Documentation guides and directs all staff in the delivery of the subject. Revisiting policies relating to Religious Education including the Religious Education handbook will continue to reflect and suit the needs of the school.
- Governors receive regular updates from the Religious Education coordinator and are aware of standards at Sacred Heart.
- The Self Evaluation Document is good in identifying targets, timescales and lines of accountability
- Monitoring data for Religious Education is used well to evaluate the schools performance and plan for future improvements. There are good systems in place and there is detailed evidence for monitoring of pupils' workbooks.
- The school would benefit from a more detailed monitoring of planning, teaching and learning and sharing of good and outstanding practice across the school.
- Detailed assessment information is collated and tracked by the subject leader and is shared with the headteacher, leadership team, governors and parents.
- Formal assessment tasks are undertaken in line with Archdiocesan guidance and moderated well. The Religious Education coordinator is prepared for raising expectations for higher levels of assessment.
- Curriculum outlines are provided for parents who are consulted on different issues depending on the topic being covered. Parents also receive copies of the Wednesday Word.
- Religious Education is in a prominent position within formal written reports to parents. Reports show a personal learning journey for each child. There are differentiated comments on pupils' achievements in Religious Education.
- Achievement and effort at Sacred Heart is inclusive and always celebrated.

What the school needs to do to improve further?
